Hispanic Active Relationships Project (H.A.R.P.) Of Cameron County Presents “Renew your Vows Ceremony”

Brownsville, TX - January 14, 2008 - Hispanic Active Relationships Project (H.A.R.P.) of Cameron County invites couples to a “Vow Renewal Ceremony” at 10:00 am on February 9, 2008 at the steps of Cameron County Courthouse on Monroe and 12th Street, Brownsville TX. Couples will express their commitment to family strength in Cameron County by renewing their commitment to each other just like they did on their wedding day. Cameron County Judge Carlos Cascos will officiate the renewal of vows in which he will be asking all husbands and all wives to speak privately to each other. In a single ceremony married couples will renew their vows and at the same time a giant voice of support will be heard.

This hallmark event will kick-off Cameron County’s first official “Marriage Week” celebration. In, 2008 for the first time ever, Cameron County will officially proclaim “Marriage Week” during Valentine’s season --February 9th thru the 16th. “Marriage Week” USA celebrates the importance of marriage in communities throughout the nation, by offering week-long events to build family closeness and create awareness of free workshops for lifetime love. To celebrate H.A.R.P. will be offering FREE events and workshops to all Cameron County residents!
